Synopsis

Negar SamakNejad, a 46-year-old university lecturer, holding a PhD in cognitive science and a passionate running coach, aims for a remarkable goal.

Negar intends to become the first Iranian woman to continuously climb Mount Damavand from all four fronts to the peak. Standing at an impressive 5,609 meters, Mount Damavand is both the highest peak in Iran and the third-highest volcano in the Eastern Hemisphere.

This compelling documentary delves into the inspiring journey of an Iranian woman as she chases her lifelong dream

She succeeds eventually but the taste of success has a bitter side, being expelled from the university. The university authorities never name the real reason for her expulsion. Their rotten minds could not stand a woman lecturer who became a public figure and role model for thousands of Iranian women after this movie was shot.
